According to the Institute of Education Sciences, about 20 million students are expected to attend American colleges and universities in Fall 2015, which is an estimated increase of 4.9 million students since Fall 2000.

Are you a high school student planning for the next stage...college? ACT prep? Career exploration? Look no further! The Gandhi Samaj of Chicago (a non-profit community organization) is hosting its 2nd annual Youth Career Planning Seminar, right for you!!

You and your family are welcome to attend this FREE seminar that will help you plan, prepare and organize for the next stage in your educational development.

With an increased academic workload, family expectations and personal goals, high school students are challenged and pressured into making important career and college decisions. Your high school and college education is an integral aspect of your future. For parents, this is an incredibly stressful time as you help plan your child's future, whether that's deciding which college is the best fit or calculating finances.

With all these factors in mind, our Youth Career Planning Seminar collaborates with various professionals in the community with a focus on the healthcare field, business and engineering. The format of the seminar includes professionals from Accounting, Medical (Physical Therapy and Dentistry), Business Administration and Engineering delivering 20min presentation on their Profession and how they got there. They will also discuss educational requirements, life-in-a-day and career outlook. They will be available to answer questions during the seminar.

The seminar will also explore topics pertaining to college tuition, financial aid and scholarship opportunities, and ACT/SAT preparation. The seminar will also allow you and your family to meet and ask the professionals questions for guidance.
